MARCH 14: The Hartt School with Dale Merrill

The Hartt School at the University of Hartford, an acclaimed performing arts institution with comprehensive programs in music, dance, and theater, has been a leader in the fine arts for over 100 years. Dale Merrill, Dean of the Hartt School, will offer an overview of their educational, performance, and community outreach activities that enrich the culture and spirit of the Hartford region.

MARCH 28: The Impact of the Pandemic on Elections and Voting with Paul Herrson

The Covid-19 pandemic has had substantial impacts on many facets of life, including politics and our participation in the political process. UConn political science Professor Paul Herrson is an expert on the state of US elections and will update us on his recent research focused on the impact of the pandemic on voting and elections.

APRIL 11: The Children's Reading Partners with Ronni Breiter

Children's Reading Partners, an initiative of the Jewish Federation, works through volunteer mentors to build and improve the reading skills of at-risk public school students in elementary grades. Now in its 25th year, Director Ronni Breiter will discuss activities, challenges, and accomplishments of this important organization.

APRIL 25: The Hartford Foundation for Public Giving with Jay Williams

Addressing structural racism and attendant disparities in social, economic, educational, and basic human needs is at the forefront of the Hartford Foundation mission. President and CEO Jay Williams will discuss the many programs and partnerships the Foundation leads to advance equity, particularly for people of color, across the region.

Tuesdays at 11:00am

All programs are virtual.
